DAILY HEADBÄNGER

Tuesday • January 31, 2023

January was a tough year, but we made it.

MÖRNING MEME

TODAY IN HEADBÄNGER HISTORY

January 31, 1959 – Robert Zimmerman, 17, (later known as Bob Dylan) sees Buddy Holly perform at the Duluth Armory in Minnesota. Dylan later said, “Buddy Holly’s songs were much more simplified [than Chuck Berry’s songs], but what I got out of Buddy was that you can take influences from anywhere. Like his ‘That’ll Be The Day.’ I read somewhere that it was a line he heard in a movie, and I started realizing you can take things from everyday life that you hear people say. That I still find true. You can go anywhere in daily life and have your ears open and hear something, either something someone says to you or something you hear across the room. If it has resonance you can use it in a song.”

Buffalo Springfield, dies of natural causes in Los Angeles. He was 68. Martin was one of only three musicians to stay with the group from its inception in April 1966 to its disbandment in 1968. During his time with the group Martin also did session work for The Monkees.
